The meeting began with chanting of Sanskrit Hymn by students of the Sanskrit Department. The inaugural speech was given by Dr. Goutam Sen, Teacher in Charge, Hiralal Bhakat College. In his speech he spoke about how literature captures the rich essence of our society, but for far too long a major portion of the narrative was missing. He pointed out that from the epics of Mahabharata and Ramayana to the works of the earlier centuries, women and their role was often relegated to the sidelines.

The next speaker was Dr. Chaitanya Biswas, Associate Professor, Department of Bengali. In his speech he spoke about how literature acted as a powerful tool for the women's movement. The struggles of women have been documented through essays, poems, stories and novels. He stressed that the power of the written word lies in its ability to reach hearts and minds and literature enabled women to build a collective voice against systemic oppression.

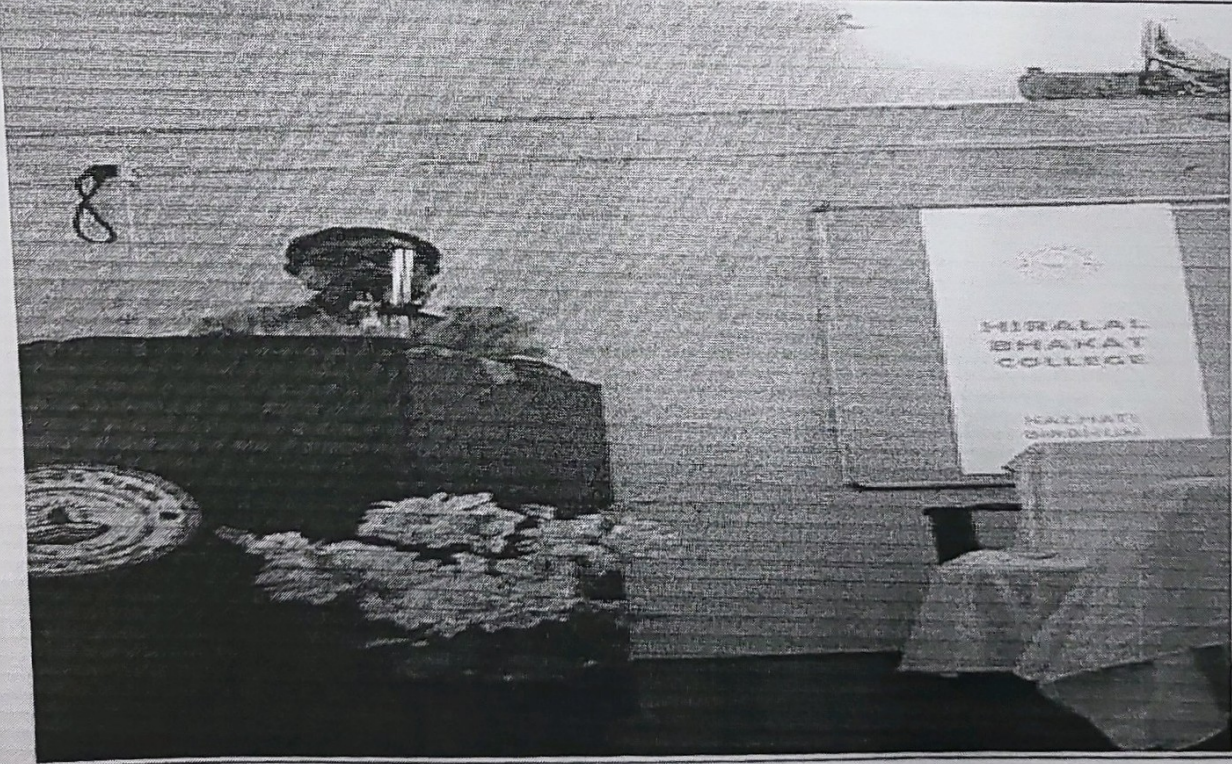

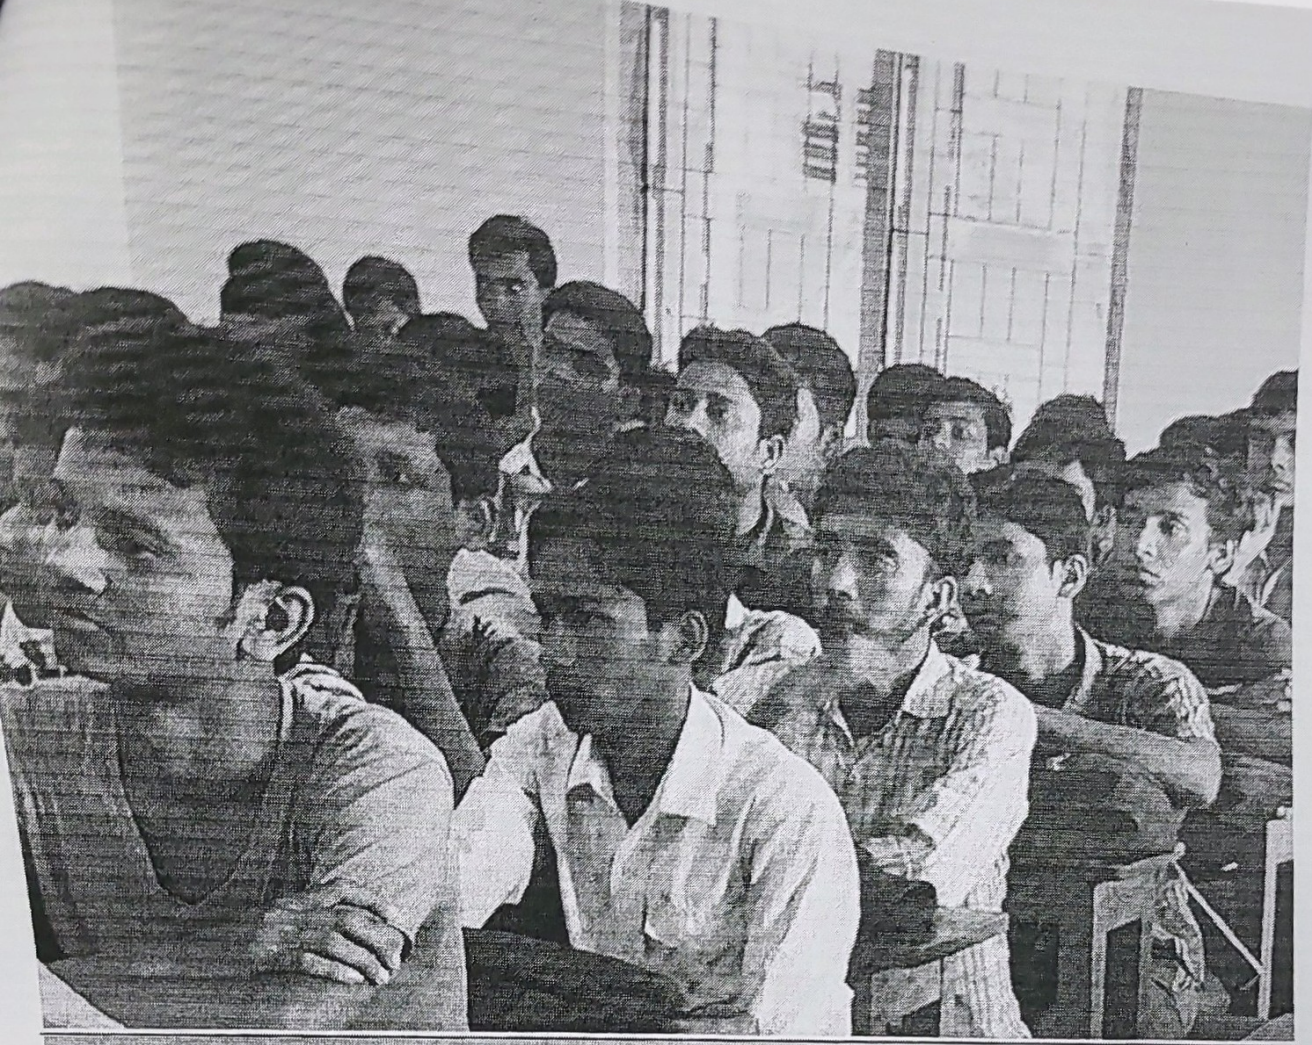

The seminar ended with a vote of thanks by Amrita Biswas, Convener of the Gender Cell

Participants : The Seminar was attended by 98 participants. Out of them 70 were students and 28 were members of the Teaching and Non-Teaching Staff.
